

Hendrickson; McKenzie top flour packers

Outside of the dog races, it may be the single most anticipated event of Trappers' Festival, and once again the competitors put on quite a show.

The flour packing portion of the King Trapper contest was held Saturday afternoon at the Aseneskak Casino. Several of the men managed to carry the minimum 700 lbs. weight, including Franklin Carriere.

Carriere, who was 62 and competing in his last Trappers' Festival, carried 725 lbs. and walked the distance at a rapid pace, making it look almost easy.

The competition however, came down to the two competitors who have competed head to head in this event for several years now, John Hendrickson and Gerald McKenzie. McKenzie, who was up right after Carriere, did a carry of 850 lbs., a weight only Hendrickson would challenge as most of the men struggled to get the 700 lbs. minimum off the table and onto their backs.

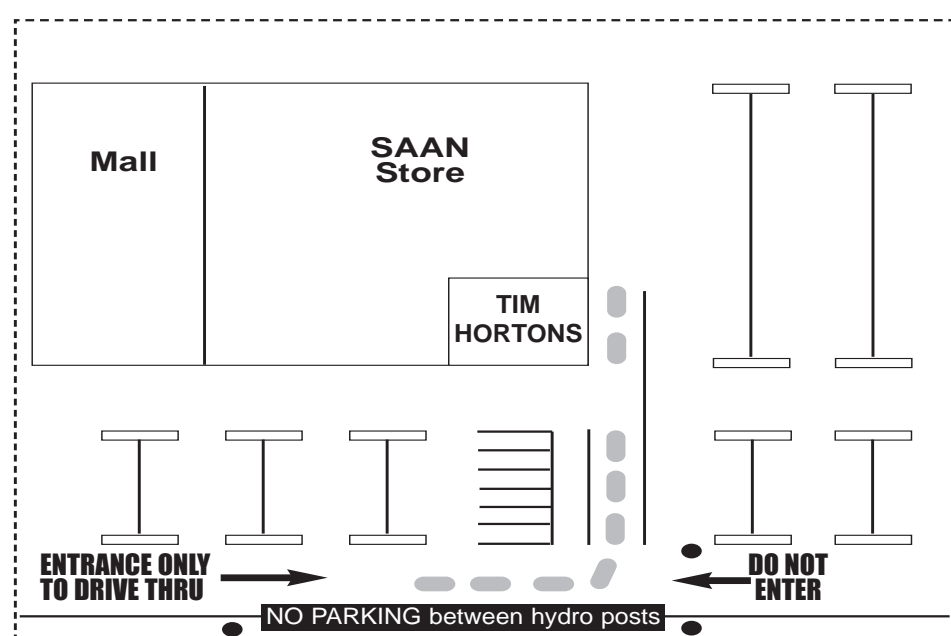

Hendrickson however decided to try and best McKenzie's time, and attempted a carry of 900 lbs. The weight wasn't a significant challenge to Hendrickson apparently, as he crossed the line, turned around and proceeded to carry the weight most of the way back to the starting table before dropping.

The impressive show was enough to land Hendrickson top honors in the flour packing event again, having won last year as well.
